A large number of buildings are being constructed for the research institute of the large pharmaceutical combine in Zwaetzen (N 51/3 77) near Jena. The entire construction project will allegedly be completed by the end of 1952. The villa of Professor Hans Knoll, the chief of Jenapharm, the building of the Bovet-Calmette Guerin (BCG) Serum Institute and one stable are already completed and will allegedly be occupied in July 1951. Also the large main building and two other stables are under construction. It is planned to house a total of 80,000 animals in the three stables. Most of the animals will be large but there will also be some small animals such as rabbits, mice, etc. The main building will be a four-story structure with a seven-story center section. The chemical research department will be housed in one side-wing and the biotic research departments will be in the other side wing.
